

Developing a HR Barometer

HR EMPLOYEE RELATIONS BAROMETER The well known adage, commonly used when working with the Management by Objectives model or the Key Performance Indicators You cannot manage what you cannot measure is as applicable to the HR role as the marketing or manufacturing functions, although it may not be easy! Since the core role of the HR function is building and fostering effective employee relations, the said department should monitor impact of the various programs your Organization has implemented. LSOM has identified several areas, which can be measured. LSOM is suggesting that you develop a monthly EMPLOYEE RELATIONS BAROMETER to check the pulse of the people in the organization. Some examples of the HR areas are identified and LSOM shows how you can develop a Barometer. We are confident that this will go well with your peers, and employees will want to see the barometer, if this is prominently displayed, for all employees to see. Change is happening everywhere; why not the HR Department? LSOM (Latiff Sher)
